The left's assault on free speech and free minds is a serious threat to our democracy. In recent years, we have seen a growing trend of censorship and thought policing on college campuses, in the media, and in the public square. This trend is not only dangerous for our individual freedoms, but it is also a threat to our ability to have a healthy and informed debate about the issues facing our country.

The Origins Of The Left's Assault On Free Speech

The left's assault on free speech has its roots in the postmodernist movement of the late 20th century. Postmodernism rejects the idea of objective truth and reality, and it argues that all knowledge is subjective and socially constructed. This view of knowledge has led to a widespread belief on the left that there is no such thing as free speech, because all speech is inherently political and can be used to oppress or silence others.

Another factor that has contributed to the left's assault on free speech is the rise of identity politics. Identity politics is the belief that people's political views are primarily determined by their race, gender, sexual orientation, or other group affiliations. This view has led to a climate of fear and self-censorship on the left, as people are afraid to express opinions that might be seen as offensive or oppressive to members of other groups.

The Consequences Of The Left's Assault On Free Speech

The left's assault on free speech has had a number of negative consequences for our society. First, it has led to a decline in intellectual diversity on college campuses. In recent years, there have been numerous cases of professors being fired or denied tenure for expressing opinions that are unpopular with the left. This has created a climate of fear and self-censorship on campus, and it has made it difficult for students to hear a wide range of viewpoints.

Second, the left's assault on free speech has led to a decline in the quality of public discourse. In recent years, we have seen a growing trend of people being censored or shouted down for expressing opinions that are unpopular with the left. This has made it difficult to have a healthy and informed debate about the issues facing our country.

Third, the left's assault on free speech has threatened our democracy. Free speech is essential for a democracy to function properly. It allows citizens to express their opinions, to challenge the government, and to hold those in power accountable. When free speech is suppressed, it is impossible to have a free and fair election, and it is impossible to hold the government accountable for its actions.

What Can We Do To Stop The Left's Assault On Free Speech?

There are a number of things that we can do to stop the left's assault on free speech. First, we need to speak out against censorship and thought policing. We need to make it clear that we will not tolerate the suppression of free speech, and we need to hold those who engage in censorship accountable.

Second, we need to support organizations that are fighting for free speech. There are a number of organizations that are working to protect free speech on college campuses, in the media, and in the public square. We can support these organizations by donating money, volunteering our time, and spreading the word about their work.

Third, we need to educate ourselves about the importance of free speech. We need to understand why free speech is essential for a democracy, and we need to be able to articulate the arguments in favor of free speech.

The left's assault on free speech is a serious threat to our democracy. However, we can stop this assault by speaking out against censorship, supporting organizations that are fighting for free speech, and educating ourselves about the importance of free speech.
