Motivational speakers are often seen as purveyors of feel-good platitudes and empty promises. They tell us that we can achieve anything we set our minds to, if we just believe in ourselves and work hard enough. But what if we could use their power of persuasion to promote a more just and equitable world?

This article argues that we can and should use free speech to make motivational speakers debate Marxist ideas. Marxism is a revolutionary theory that seeks to overthrow capitalism and create a communist society. It is based on the idea that the working class is exploited by the capitalist class, and that the only way to achieve true freedom and equality is to abolish capitalism.

Motivational speakers often talk about the importance of hard work and determination. But they rarely talk about the systemic barriers that prevent many people from achieving their full potential. They don't talk about the racism, sexism, and classism that make it harder for people of color, women, and poor people to succeed. Marxism provides a framework for understanding these systemic barriers and for fighting to overcome them.

By making motivational speakers debate Marxist ideas, we can help to raise awareness of the problems that capitalism creates. We can also help to challenge the individualistic and meritocratic ideologies that are so prevalent in our society. And we can inspire people to fight for a better world.

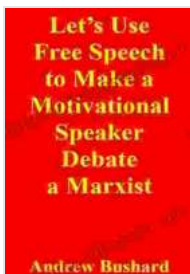

How to Make Motivational Speakers Debate Marxist Ideas

There are a few things we can do to make motivational speakers debate Marxist ideas.

- Invite Marxist speakers to events. When you're planning an event, invite Marxist speakers to give presentations. This will help to introduce Marxist ideas to a wider audience.
- Ask questions about Marxism at events. When you attend events where motivational speakers are speaking, ask them questions about Marxism. This will help to get them thinking about Marxist ideas and will force them to defend their own views.
- Write articles and blog posts about Marxism. Write articles and blog posts about Marxism and share them with your friends and followers. This will help to educate people about Marxism and will make it more difficult for motivational speakers to ignore Marxist ideas.

- Support Marxist organizations. Support Marxist organizations that are working to build a more just and equitable world. These organizations can provide you with resources and support, and they can help you to get involved in the fight for a better world.

Motivational speakers have the power to inspire people to achieve great things. But we can't let them use their power to promote the status quo. We need to make them debate Marxist ideas, so that they can help us to build a more just and equitable world.
